

Stirling Castle

During the holidays, I went to visit a haunted castle and I found that the fortress was massive, old, and mysterious. It overlooked the forest. This castle was called Stirling Castle.

Stirling Castle is in the center of Scotland, near Glasgow and Edimbourg .

The fortress was built in the 15th century.

It is a tourist place because it is classified as a national and historic monument of Scotland .

When I arrived I was very curious but I was not worried, because the castle didn't look like those in the movies. This one was not very scary because it wasn't abandoned, gloomy, foggy nor hostile .

But the fortress is still haunted by the Pink Lady. Her real name is Marie Ire, Queen of Scots. Her maid, the Green Lady, saved the queen from a fire.

One evening I walked in a dark corridor of the castle when I heard voices. Suddenly, I saw a shadow!

It looked like an old woman and it did not look friendly.

The spirit disappeared very quickly and I was afraid .

Surprised and scared, I went back into the dungeon and I didn't move until morning .
